Presidential Elections

New York, Oct. 27.—Apparently unaffected by his labors of yesterday which began at seven o'clock in the morning and lasted until nearly four o'clock this morning, Bryan made another appearance in the city of the election, around New York to-day. A time table running over fourteen hours is mapped out for him. His last speech to be made in Brooklyn at midnight. His voice is as strong as it was when he started on the campaign back in August. Before starting for the Hoffman House on his tour today, Bryan spoke of his work yesterday. He said that in all the years of his campaigning he had never felt in a "body" of his work yesterday. "I estimate that I talked to 30,000 men yesterday," said Bryan. "I do not believe the meeting in Madison Square Garden would have been exceeded." Bryan's first meeting tonight at the hall of the Order of Acacia was one of the last held in the city.

BATTILING NELSON ON HIMSELF.

"They say I'm not a human being, I guess they're right," says Battling Nelson. "I've got a supernatural brain. My heart beats average from 66 to 43 a minute, while the average person's heart beats from 75 to 36 a minute. Often when I get up in the morning my heart beats as low as 40. "I'm cold-blooded. When I get into the ring I can stand for nothing interfering with my fighting. There's nothing has effect on me. I keep after my men till he drops. "I've got a perfect nervous system. It's the ring or out of it. I never get excited. I never worry. I never fret. Nothing bothers me. I'm cool and collected all the time. "I guess that's why I'm not a human being. "I said I was cold-blooded and that my heart beats so sometimes, but I want to say that that heart is as big as the rest of the world. Nelson was asked whether he believed Joe Gans was right, when he said no fighting with him would knock the champion out. "Well, to be honest with you," returned Battling Nelson, "I can answer that in one word—No. That is, nobody of my weight. "There was only one time when I was counted out and I was out for seven days then. That was in a bicycle factory in Hingham, Ill., in 1891. I was helping a blacksmith when a Texas drop hammer caught me on the head. It was ripped open in a dozen places. They thought I was dead at first. I was sent over one side of my face and head. That's what I got to show for the only time I took the count. If they want to get me again they've got to get a drop hammer or an axe."

"Joe Gans is a good fighter. Gans can whip the rest of the lightweight in half the time it took me to whip him."

Black Hands' Vengeance

New York, Oct. 27.—A crime of the most dastardly character, whereby eleven persons were burnt to death and twenty injured, was committed in Mulberry street, in the heart of the Italian quarter of New York, early on Monday morning. The scene of the outrage was an old-fashioned tenement house, built of wood, occupied by several Italian families. Bursts of oil-soaked paper appeared to have been placed under the steps of this rickety dwelling while the inmates were asleep by members of the notorious "Black Hand" Secret Society, which has lately been very active in New York. "Life was in a twinkling" and in a few minutes the building was a mass of flames. The eleven dead include a married couple named Foyello, four young children a widow and her seven-year-old daughter, two girls, and an old man. All of the victims were Italian, mostly poor folk. The whole affair took place with and one man was seen quickly leaving the building from the street into the hall-way of the tenement house, and then suddenly this stranger ran from the house, accidentally knocked over a fruit stand, turned a street corner and disappeared. Immediately flames were seen leaping from the doorway.

In the excitement the people forgot to summon the fire engines, but men in the upper floors of the tenement began firing revolvers from the windows to attract attention and the police and firemen were quickly on the spot, performing wonderful feats of valor, and rescuing dozens of persons from death.

No fewer than fourteen babies were thrown into the life net from the third and fourth story windows by the firemen, whilst adults were assisted to swing from the windows of the burning house to the windows of an adjacent building.

On the fourth floor lived the doomed Foyello and his wife and child. Domenico Foyello and his wife got to the escape in front, and were followed by their children and the widow when there came an explosion which caused them to be trampled and windows crashed. Then came flames from the windows below and the Foyellos were driven back into their smoke-filled and already blazing rooms. They ran to the escape in the front, and the flames came out over the escape. Suddenly smoke hid the imprisoned people from the view of the horrified crowd in the street below. The firemen found their bodies later. All had been suffocated and burned. One mother managed to drop her baby into a blanket held by the people below, and on attempting to save it to death. A man who refused to leave overpowered by the flames and burnt alive, his other children who were the premises without his money also lost his life. The theory of the police is that some one in the tenement had offended the "Black Hand," who thus wreaked their vengeance on guilty and innocent alike.

City Council

The city council held another short session last night, the business being gone through in a little over an hour. There was very little correspondence, the double with, and no accounts were presented. There were two letters regarding for bonds, one from Messrs. Wood, Gandy & Co., of Toronto, and one from Mitchell, Carleton & Co., of Montreal. Mr. D. Brown, the Waterworks superintendent, wrote asking for a settlement of his claim for damages to stock, furniture, etc., caused by the flooding of his cellar last spring. Mr. Brown's original claim was for $200, but at a council meeting some weeks ago the solicitor and engineer, who had been appointed to inquire into the matter, reported recommending that $50 be allowed in settlement. This report was adopted, but the offer was never made. It was now suggested that the secretary write to Mr. Brown making this offer.

Messrs. Ouler, Hammond and Nanton asked for payment of the balance due on the sale of the market, and on the motion of Ald. Sheppard it was decided to have the debtors covering those debts prepared and offered for sale at once. The mayor brought up the matter of the final settlement of the Delta. In claim re waterworks contract, and after some discussion it was resolved that the amount of ten per cent. of the contracts which had been held back be handed over to Delta & Main, together with interest at 5 per cent. from June, 1907.

Wrestling Match Friday Night

On Friday evening in the new building block the sports of Strathcona will have another opportunity of seeing some good wrestling. Jim White, who made good on Monday evening in the Oldfellow's temple, has undertaken to throw Arthur twice within half an hour for $50 a side. White will afterwards try to throw the German Ferdinand Koch, three times in an hour for $25 a side. As a preliminary Kenny Blackford and Leo Benson will wrestle for 10 a side, two out of three falls.

ALASKAN BIRDS IN CALIFORNIA.

San Bernardino, Cal., Oct. 27.—At an early hour this morning several flocks of strange birds resembling thousands came into the city on the wings of a big rain and wind storm, and this morning the bodies of many of the birds were found lying about in the downtown streets and in the parks. The air was filled last night with cries of electric lights, roared upon the streets of strange fowl, attracted by buildings or fell exhausted in the streets. Investigation to-day showed that many of the birds were of Alaskan variety, and the birds accounting for their presence in this latitude is that they were engaged in a long flight to the southern zones from their northern summer haunts and had been deterred from their route by heavy winds and rains. The most notable birds were hawks. The former birds are rarely seen outside of Alaska or in the far north.

Night Riders Will Escape

Union City, Tenn., Oct. 27.—Unless martial law is proclaimed by Governor Patterson, the trials of the night riders under arrest in various counties are likely to prove a legal farce. This is the expression heard from learned attorneys, who declare that the judge selected to hear the preliminary testimony has been illegally chosen. Hon. Rice Pierce has been returned to defend the night riders, and it is said that habeas corpus proceedings are likely in order to release some of them.

MAY BEAT SIFTON.

Winnipeg, Oct. 27.—Revised returns show that Sifton has won a Conservative majority in the present assembly. Sifton is leading by over one hundred with only six small polls to come in which will not affect the result.

There will also, certainly be a recount in Brandon, where Sifton has 16 of 21 electoral majority, while there are several protested ballots which Conservative claim will give Daly the seat when these are adjudicated upon. On the other hand the outlying polls come in. The present summary for Manitoba is eight Conservatives and two Liberals with a recount in Brandon.

Dishonest Banker Found Guilty

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 27.—Wm. M. Mack, a money, former cashier of the Allentown National bank which failed some time ago for over $1,000,000 was placed on trial last Friday on two indictments charging the misappropriation of $250,000 which was found guilty and sentenced by a jury in the U. S. District Court this afternoon. Montgomery was immediately placed on trial on a third and last roll facing charges with the misappropriation of $144,000 in bonds. The jury was selected in an hour.

C. B.'S WILL.

Laydon, Oct. 26.—Particulars of the will of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and his brother, the Right Hon. A. Campbell, were made public on Saturday. After various pecuniary and specific legacies, including one of all correspondence, papers, etc., of every sort to the right Hon. John Sinclair, he bequeathed solely by him at his death and undistributed dividends, the late premier directs his real estate, including Belmont Castle, to be held in trust for his grand-nephew, James Hugh Campbell, until he attains the age of twenty-five years, the income in the meantime to be administered by Sir Henry's wife. Mrs. Alice H. Campbell (the mother of Mr. James Hugh Campbell). The personality is worth at $500,000; but Sir Henry owned property in Buchanan street, Glasgow, which yielded $80,000 annually. Sir Henry's brother's estate is given as $1,000,000, and the estate duty paid is $55,015.

Archbold And W. R. Hearst

New York, Oct. 27.—John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil Co., made the statement this afternoon regarding the letters read by William R. Hearst at the Carnegie hall meeting on Saturday night, as follows: "I am very sorry that until Mr. Hearst read the letters neither Judge Morrison nor Judge Henderson had any knowledge of my having written Governor Stone in their behalf. Judge Henderson was not appointed by Governor Stone to the Supreme court, but was, three years later, appointed by Governor Thompson to a supreme court judgeship. It is, however, my feeling of mine could have influenced in the slightest degree the selection of the gentleman for their respective positions. I would be very proud of it. The courts have had no better servants than they. And I certainly have never asked of them any favor of mine, either for myself or the company with which I am connected. "My letters to General Elkins relating to accompanying him related only to contributions to the Bynonville state committee when elected in the campaign preliminary to the re-election of Mr. McKinley. It is a subject on which I should think Mr. Hearst would find a little sensitive. It was not the election and death of Mr. McKinley that came near costing Hearst his precious neck."

"The statement regarding Judge Hearst has been explained and exploded so many times that it would be an insult to the public to go over it again. "The intimation by Hearst that he has had any communication from me or from any of my associates in connection with the stolen letters, is a lie. "The only favor I would ask or hope to ask of Mr. Hearst is that he return me the letters handed to him by his lawless confederate friend, which were written from Japan relative to the fatal illness of my daughter in that country."

CASTRO AND SMITH-REID.

Caracas, Venezuela, Tuesday, via Williamsport, Curacao, Oct. 27.—President Castro in answer to the second Netherlands note, has declined to revoke his decree of May 11 prohibiting the trans-shipment of goods for Venezuelan ports as Caracas, which has been so obnoxious to the people of that island.

This answer was made September 17. The president expressed surprise that the Netherlands government should ask for the revocation of his decree after acknowledging Venezuela's rights to issue it. Continuing he asks the Netherlands to send a credible agent to Caracas to arrange the terms of an amicable settlement of the difficulty between the two governments. The chief of the artillery branch of the Venezuelan army has completed the preparations for the defense of La Guaira, in anticipation of a naval demonstration by Holland before that port in November, should he be unjustified to all the modern guns installed in the forts on the mountainous shore La Guaira. President Castro's health is still delicate and causes anxiety to his friends.

People in the vicinity of the A. McDonald Company's building on Grand street at 6:30 last night were very much startled by a noise which seemed to come from the interior of the large brick structure. On investigation it was found that the noise came from that part of the building used as a wholesale grocery warehouse. From some unexplained reason two 25-foot spans in the centre of the building had completely collapsed and the three floors above had fallen clear through to the basement. The roof at this point was still slightly, but so far has not toppled through to the basement. Several workmen had just finished work and left the building for the night. Had the accident occurred fifteen minutes earlier it would no doubt have been attended with fatal results. As it is the scene at present is one of destruction, groans of every description being mixed up with wailing, moans and shrieks in a confused heap in the basement. As soon as the fall occurred the light officials were summoned and the electric current is off of the building, any further damage of fire.

CURRENT COMMENT

Our reported contemporary the Plaindealer was very wroth on what it describes as a contemptible journalism, and heads a column with the following strong statement:

"The Plaindealer's Journal is lying. Report of Saturday Night's Political meeting in Stratcona—A very consistent ending of the Diogenes Campaign of Slander."

This heading practically composes the whole of the Plaindealer's answer to the Journal's report on the Plaindealer, very carefully, and although the report seems to have got slightly twisted in parts we think it a pretty fair report of what actually transpired, and much less colorful than the Bulletin report on the meeting, which completely stated that only four persons responded to the call for a meeting for Mr. Day. The editor of the Plaindealer well knows the composition of Saturday night's meeting. He also knows that if there was any statement in the Journal's report that could be characterized as absolutely untrue he would be only too glad to point it out. The careful avoidance of any report in the Plaindealer is a sufficient indication that Dr. McLeary and his friends are none too proud of the turn that the meeting took. The incident is over, and we simply refer to the occurrence to show how unfair the Plaindealer is when dealing with a political opponent.

It is interesting to read the views of the Canadian election taken by the British papers. We well know that in certain quarters there is a tendency to underestimate the power of the British press and we have frequently heard stalwart Canadians expressing opinions which implied that Britain should mind her own business. This attitude is, obviously, ridiculous in view of the fact that Canada draws her financial life blood from the markets of the Old Country, and that any adverse criticism from any of the reputable portion of the press would inevitably have a disastrous effect on the relation of Canadian securities and consequently on the pockets of every citizen in the Dominion. The Westminster Gazette, which is a stalwart organ of Liberalism in London, and whose editors are C. G. Goldie more than anything else to carry the present Liberal government into power, says:

"There was some real ground for expecting the Conservative would win, and we suspect that it was the advantage of Laurier's personality which has alone prevented a Conservative victory."

That the Westminster Gazette has summed up the situation accurately most people will admit, but the tone of the Gazette's notice implies that they are unacquainted with the conditions which have given rise to many of the charges during the past election. It is the duty, therefore, of the government that has been returned to power to take care that no intimation of fresh scandal should arise, but that if it does it should be instantly and thoroughly refuted to the bottom. The Pall Mall Gazette, a moderate Conservative organ of high standing and one which has much weight in financial circles, says that charges of corruption against the various departments of the government have not been made in a very satisfactory manner. It will be observed that it does not state that these charges should have been made, but declares that it was the duty of the government to disprove them. We believe that the rank and file of both

Unusually, Oct. 27.—Mr. Angell, in acknowledging the honor of the freedom of Kitchener presented to him on Monday, said that if the local public work was to reach its highest level, one condition was that the men and women in the community must be truly and willing to co-operate in it.

One of the conditions was the maintenance of vigilant public interest. Almost all the scandals which had disgraced the affairs of municipal history in this and other countries were due to the absence of temporary withdrawal of those restraining stimulating and purifying influences.

"I am not a politician," Mrs. Angell, full-blooded and with a clean and 14-ounce title, said. "I am, at any rate by adoption and by all external means by which one can incorporate oneself into the country as near an approach to a Scotsman as any Englishman knows."

NIGHT RIDERS, AGAIN.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 27.—At Hickman, a small place in the Cumberland Mountains, a negro named Dave Walker, who had been drinking cured a white woman because she got in his way in the street, though he did not know who she was. On Monday night city "night riders" went to Walker's home, and found him there. He was shot and his family were asleep.

The night riders surrounded the place and upon Walker showing himself at the door, shot and killed him. The same treatment was meted out to the wife and two children who attempted escape.

They were killed by the ruffians there, while three other children were so badly wounded that they will die. One son, who could not get out of the house in time, was burnt to death.

HARMSWORTH'S PAY HEAVILY FOR LABELS.

London, Oct. 27.—Edward Cook and Company, soap makers, today obtained a 1914 judgment for $15,000 against a certain newspaper owned by Lord Northcliffe, who is charged that they were attempting to form a company with the paper. Lord Northcliffe, a member of parliament, recently obtained a judgment for $25,000 and costs against the same publication on a similar charge, and a suit of a like nature brought by Joseph Watson and Sons, of Leeds, was settled out of court by the payment of an amount said to exceed $25,000. Other firms accused by Lord Northcliffe's newspapers of using parties to a combine have suits pending. Lord Northcliffe is in the United States.

SERVIAN PRINCE TO RUSSIA.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 26.—News of the proposed visit of the Serbian crown prince was the most interesting political development here yesterday. The coming to St. Petersburg of the Serbian prince, who has been uttering warlike sentiments, is regarded in court diplomatic circles as a direct measure to peace, since it is believed the favors shown to him would encourage the war party in Serbia. But it is believed in other quarters that the prince has been given permission to accompany the queen to St. Petersburg in order to give the Serbian government a better chance of taming the mob spirit prevalent in Belgrade.

PORTUGAL BANKRUPT.

Oct. 28.—The newspapers here announce Portugal is bankrupt. The Epoca says: "Foreign bankers will present for payment at the end of November bills connected with the floating debt for which the government has no funds." Moreover, all of the government's usual deposits in foreign banks have been exhausted, it is regretted. It is reported that the government will raise funds by giving the Lorenzo Marques railway to a South African syndicate.

Daily Mishaps

MAKE ZAM-BUK A DAILY NEED.

Scarcely a day passes without some member of the family getting hurt. Maybe the bread-winner's work makes him peculiarly liable to cuts or lacerations; the boisterous youngsters are always running in to mother with bumps and bruises; and housework abounds with painful knocks, burns, scalds, and sprains for the fair sex.

Promptly dressing an injury with Zam-Buk means speedy relief from smarting pain. That's why the children like it. But it means much more—that your hurt will heal up quickly and perfectly without festering, without gathering, and without harboring disease germs. That's why the doctor likes it.

KING HARDY AND GREENWOOD.

London, Oct. 27.—Speaking in the Commons during a debate in the unemployed, King Hardy, reiterated the statement that ten thousand heads of families were receiving relief in Toronto. He said Greenwood properly challenged his authority and Mr. Hardy replied that it was Mr. Milford, of Toronto, and he added that the union of Englishmen is discredited in Canada, owing to the case of English immigrants. According to the Freeman's Journal, Lord Milford is greatly disappointed in his tour of Canada from a political point of view. He was repaid with courtesy but no enthusiasm. It is stated that pending his "getting another" post-Milford will probably get direct support of one of the big Canadian lines.

ABRAM'S SACRIFICE.

London, Oct. 27.—The remarkable case in which a wife's curious views, imbibed from an obscure American sect, had caused domestic unhappiness came to an end at Stratford on Sunday.

Daniel Howard, a baker, of Palmerton Villas, Walspole-road, south Woodford, appeared to answer an adjourned summons by his wife, Henrietta Jane Mary, who alleged that he had been guilty of persistent cruelty, and asked for a separation.

The allegation by the wife was that defendant had assaulted her on several occasions, and wrestled with her and punched her.

The defense put forward was that the wife had taken up with some from India received from Benito Lascaris religious notions, obtained from America. One of these was that she must make "Abram's sacrifice," which consisted in man and wife living together as brother and sister. Her husband objected, and in endeavoring to induce her to give up these peculiar ideas he had used force and she had resorted to him for help.

But he totally denied the cruelty.

A MILLION A YEAR.

Speaking of the development of Western Canada Putnam's Magazine says:

"This railroad building and town building in Canada are, I believe, the most wonderful and at the same time the least known of the great projects now under way in the world."

"The building of the Panama Canal, the spending of a hundred million dollars on the new Erie canal or any other of the present great projects of the earth is not comparable in human interest with this winning of an empire."

"The flood of immigration will be doubled, tripled. A million a year will be the cry in 1910. Now it is under 300,000."

There is a saving that does not save. There is no satisfaction of profit in mere loss of money. A prescription for getting medicine of an inferior quality. Unless medicine is skillfully compounded by experienced persons, it is mostly of any price. The thing to look out for, to insist upon, is quality. Quality is the only thing to think of when we buy drugs. If you want the satisfaction of knowing that your prescription is absolutely right bring it here. The price will be reasonable, no more and no less than the drugs and work is worth. No one can fill the prescription so it ought to be filled for less than we shall charge.

Make This Up At Your Home

What will appear very interesting to many people here is the article taken from a New York daily paper, giving a simple prescription, when it said to be a positive remedy for diabetes or kidney or bladder derangement, it taken before the stage of Bright's disease.

Field Extract Dandelion one-half ounce; Compound Kargon, one ounce; Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla, three ounces. Shake well in a bottle and take 10 drops 4 times after meals and again at bedtime.

A well-known druggist here at home, who asked regarding this prescription, stated that the ingredients are all harmless, and can be obtained at a small cost from any good prescription pharmacy, as the mixture would be put up if asked to do so. He further stated that while this prescription is often prescribed in rheumatic affections with splendid results, he could see no reason why it would not be a splendid remedy for kidney, very trouble and backache, as a peculiar action upon the kidney structure, cleansing these most important organs and helping the to get rid of the acid blood, the food acids and waste matter which cause sickness and suffering. Those of our readers who offer can make no mistake in giving it a trial.

Indicted For Shooting Buffalo Ship-Japan And Russia Agree-Blackmailer Sentenced-The Kaiser And England Persia Powerless

Calgary, Oct. 26.—At midnight after taking out since 5:15 p.m., the jury in the Kimball case was called to the fore. The Kimball was chief of police at Laramie and shot and killed one Hilly, who tried to escape after jumping a board bill. Judge Latchford presented a very strong case against the prisoner Hilly. He said scarcely a word in his favor.

The judge declared that Kimball had not denied the statements of those who spoke to him immediately after the shooting when the prisoner had admitted that the dead man Hilly had shot and killed him. Kimball had been in the city in which they have been kept has been a matter of great difficulty and has occupied considerable time. It has been carried on in the face of every obstacle that could be placed in the way by the men and when Kimball omitted reference to an accidental discharge. All Kimball's defense was that he did not remember what he had said. The judge did the keynotes to the whole matter was in Kimball's statements on July 25, that "Conscience does not like to after a man and go left. A Mrs. Tolliver, of Laramie, saw Hilly dead but boarded him testified that she had filed the information against Hilly, that brought Kimball to Laramie after the shooting. She stated that she had told Kimball that it was a bad man where he was going to, and that Hilly was probably a dangerous man. This statement was firmly backed by attorney Lewis, who declared that it was an unusual state of mind in Kimball when he was going for his prisoner. Judge Latchford called this statement unfortunate perhaps it was. A warning note was sounded and perhaps it led to the whole by the judge when he said: "Some constables have as little idea as you get rid of that idea the better case about a fleeing man. The sooner there is no such law in this or any other civilized country."

DIED OF DROUGHT.

Low Angus, Cal., Oct. 26.—Dying of thirst in the desert west of Death Valley, E. F. Pratt, a prospector of the Grape Vine district in Argus Mountains, was found by another mountaineer the record of his sufferings on a page of a diary found by his side. Pratt, after being informed that the trip was a dangerous one, started for Mojave and for several days succeeded in finding water. He finally attained a region utterly destitute of moisture and lost his way. Here the pages of the diary contain the scraps that became illegible that read as follows: "No water today; must get over the next range to find my way back. Things about look fine. Can't find my trail. No water now for two days. Am about all in. Will be able to hold out tomorrow. I will start the pace. Have left my grub and blankets, am going blind with this sun and headache. Hum, and I am gasping and bleeding. Must get water today or I'll can in."

This is the last illegible entry, at which Pratt had obviously forced his fate and left a request that notification of his death be sent to his brothers.

YANK HOUSE AT VEGEVILLE BURNED.

Vegreville, Oct. 26.—A fire which broke out at 3 p.m. in the C.N.R. tank house gave the fire brigade a lively time today. The C.N.R. engine house was completely destroyed, but the tank itself was saved. A 30-ton gasoline pump which Vegreville fire brigade was all that prevented a heavy loss.

Calgary, Oct. 26.—Honorar. Douglas, commissioner of Dominion parks, and Robert Riddell, V.S., left yesterday for Ravalli, Montana, to superintend the driving and loading of the remainder of the buffalo purchased by the Canadian government from Don McNeil Pabst.

The rounding up of these animals in the bill country in which they have been kept has been a matter of great difficulty and has occupied considerable time. It has been carried on in the face of every obstacle that could be placed in the way by the men and when Kimball omitted reference to an accidental discharge. All Kimball's defense was that he did not remember what he had said. The judge did the keynotes to the whole matter was in Kimball's statements on July 25, that "Conscience does not like to after a man and go left. A Mrs. Tolliver, of Laramie, saw Hilly dead but boarded him testified that she had filed the information against Hilly, that brought Kimball to Laramie after the shooting. She stated that she had told Kimball that it was a bad man where he was going to, and that Hilly was probably a dangerous man. This statement was firmly backed by attorney Lewis, who declared that it was an unusual state of mind in Kimball when he was going for his prisoner. Judge Latchford called this statement unfortunate perhaps it was. A warning note was sounded and perhaps it led to the whole by the judge when he said: "Some constables have as little idea as you get rid of that idea the better case about a fleeing man. The sooner there is no such law in this or any other civilized country."

In a recent conversation with an American who was trying to dissuade him from further attempts to deliver the buffalo, Pabst is reported as saying: "Myself and my horse will be sent in a good faith with him he will deliver over every animal."

By itself and my horse will be sent in a good faith with him he will deliver over every animal. It is over every herd, if I have to get them from every country to do it. And the old man will do it, as he has been put on his mettle by the opposition he has received from the Americans, both private and of contract.

Mr. Douglas received a telegram yesterday from Alex. Agnew, Dominion government immigration agent at Muskeg, stating that the roundup had been delayed for a few days on account of snow, but would be few days loading could be commenced. There will be about 200 animals in the shipment, and it will require a train of about thirty cars to transport them to Alberta.

The acquisition of this last large herd by the Canadian government was a splendid coup and Mr. Douglas is naturally very anxious to bring it to a successful termination by landing the animals at their future home in Buffalo park on the Battle river.

STRUCK MANITOBA'S ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Winnipeg, Oct. 26.—An aftermath of the bitter election contest has taken place this afternoon on Main street, when G. L. Howell, K.C., son of Chief Justice Howell, attacked Hon. Colin Campbell, attorney general, who has now more or less returned from Howell's arrest. The matter arose from a conversation over the telephone between Howell and the attorney general late on Sunday night, when the former demanded admittance to two Liberals, arrested and placed in the provincial jail on breach of charge. Howell stated that the attorney general called him a "latherhead" in the course of this conversation. Campbell was walking down Main street when Howell stopped him and struck him.

Hearing that a warrant for his arrest was out, E. L. Howell, accompanied by a bodyguard, went to the police station and was admitted to his cell in the morning.

Victoria, Oct. 26.—The Japanese government has completed in principle the proposal made by the Russian government for the conclusion of the pleague sealing treaty, which will include clauses similar to that arranged following the Paris conference between Great Britain and United States, whereby seal hunters will be restricted to certain open seasons, and to areas distant from the various seal rookeries. Negotiations have not yet been opened, but it is said that representatives of Japan and Russia will meet shortly to arrange the details of a treaty which will have the effect of protecting the seals of the North Pacific. When the treaty between Japan and Russia is made, it is said that Britain and the United States will be brought into the arrangement and the North Pacific sealing grounds will then be adequately protected and all pelagic sealers put on an equal basis. At present Japanese sealers are permitted to hunt within three miles distant from the seal rookeries, to use fire arms and are not restricted to a closed season and catch, which is occasional in consequence.

BRINGING NIGHT RIDERS TO JUSTICE.

Sandwich, Tenn., Oct. 26.—The ringmaster of the night riders in this section, it is believed, is a prisoner at Camp Nemo. His name is Garrett Johnson. It is the opinion of the authorities, if compelled, to talk, can tell more about the murder of Capt. Rankin than any other man under arrest. No less than forty men, it is alleged, who have been connected actively with the night riding in this territory are under arrest, and enough evidence has been collected to bring at least four men, Union City, Tenn., Oct. 26.—Frank Ferriner, who is looked upon as a man who have waged war upon the people of the secret Night Riders, is held at Fort Lora, where he has been held for several days. The leaders of the assassination of Capt. Rankin are under arrest, more than a week ago and the suspected member of Col. H. Z. Taylor, military lawyer, who so narrowly escaped. The assassination of Ferriner, another outlaw, caused the removal from the guardhouse, where more than fifty prisoners were held, of five desperate characters who are believed to be captains and lieutenants of the mob who stormed the hotel at Walnut, Tex.

TALKING PEACE STILL.

London, Oct. 26.—The recent Russian Pader in European capitals appear to have brought the idea of an international congress for the settlement of the Balkan troubles. Apparently more animated by the views of Athanasios, the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Minister, announced that his government is ready to enter the congress to discuss the annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, provided the discussion respects Austria's sovereign rights in those provinces, while the Bulgarian payment of pecuniary compensation government is now reconciled to the treaty.

Woodstock, Ont., Oct. 26.—One of the most remarkable stories in the police history of Woodstock came to light when on Friday Robert Gilwell was arrested in Port Huron and brought back to Woodstock, charged with blackmail. He pleaded guilty, and will be sentenced on Friday. The man, who was arrested when J. B. Brundage, a highly respectable citizen of Drummond was taken into custody on a similar charge and remanded for trial. It is alleged that on Christmas day 1906, Gilwell and Brundage, by threats of violence, secured $500 from an old German named Danne. The man said Danne was charged with the murder of a man named Turner, who, it is alleged, died of natural causes beyond dispute.

CORRESPONDENCE.

To the Editor of the Chronicle:—Sir,—Allow me space to reply briefly to a most contemptible slander which appeared under the heading of "Globe Over Misfortune" in the Bulletin of yesterday evening. I pass over, ignore and disown the political difference in question, but, Sir, I deny and repudiate such a vilifying assertion that western Canada is receiving the rift-rail of the British Isles. Such a statement is entirely unworthy from a reporter on the Bulletin, and it is a disgraceful reflection on the capital of Alberta, and not only so, but it casts reproach and reflection upon the Government's officials who deal with this question, and also a stigma on Edmonton's representatives, who has just been re-elected. The Bulletin's Strathcona correspondent seeks a haven of refuge under the excuse that it was Mr. Boston's lieutenant, Hon. Mr. Hanna, who said so in Ontario. I am not dealing with them; I don't know them; but I am dealing with facts, and facts are in black and white last night. It seems passing strange that this "rift-rail" hold most of the highest positions in our fair Dominion. I don't need to go far; take the honored and respected Premier, who is proud of Scotch descent, and many others. If you can't utter more, No, I shall not waste time in doing so, because I could mention dozens who hold high official positions who are proud to claim a distinction with the "Old Country," be it England, Ireland or Wales.

But "But," he asked, "about official Germany? What brought us a sudden stop that European tour of the Bore delegates who were striving for official intervention? They were fettered in Holland, and Farnow gave them rapturous welcome. They wish to open to Berlin what the German people would have crowded them with flowers but when they asked me to receive them I refused. Agitation tumultuously died away, and the delegation returned empty-handed. Was that a sign of a secret enemy? Again when I said that so far from the German government was invited by France and Russia to join them, they said, not only to save the Bore republic but also to humiliate England to the dust. What was my reply? I said that so far from the German joining any European action to bring peace against England to bring about her downfall, Germany would always keep aloof from politics that would bring her into complications with a power like England."

BRITAIN AND BULGARIA.

Son Bulgaria, Oct. 26.—The decision of Bulgaria to disband its navy and make financial compensation to Turkey was brought about by the presentation of what was practically an ultimatum by Great Britain, France and Russia, supported by Germany and Italy. Identical notes from the three powers were presented to the Bulgarian government. They demanded the disbandment of the Bulgarian reserves within two days.

London, Oct. 26.—The Daily Telegraph gives the greatest prominence to an interview between the Kaiser and a representative Englishman who long step has passed from public life to private life. The Englishman, who apparently is a diplomatist, writes: "Moments occur in the history of nations when calculated in the discretion of the highest public service. It is for that reason that I have decided to make known the substance of a long conversation which it was my recent privilege to have with the Emperor. Let me in the hope that it will help to remove an obstinate misconception of his character, and those feelings toward England, which I fear is deeply rooted in the ordinary Englishman's breast."

With unusual frankness and impulse the Englishman spoke, saying: "You English are so mad, mad, mad, as March hare. What has come over you that you are so completely given over to suspicions that are quite unworthy of a great nation. What influence have I, I have done. I declared with all the emphasis at my command in my speech at Guild Hall, that my heart was set upon peace to live on the best terms with England. Have I ever been false to my word? My actions ought to speak for themselves, but you do not listen to them. To be forever misjudged, to have repeated offers of friendship weighed and scrutinized with jealous mistrust, taxes my patience severely. I have said time after time that I am a friend of England. Your Press, or at least a considerable section of it, hide the people of England whom my official hand. It intimates that my other hand holds a dagger. How can I convince a nation against its will? The prevailing sentiment among large sections of the middle and lower classes of my people is not friendly to England. I am therefore, so to speak in the minority in my own hand but it is a minority of the best elements, just as it is in England respecting Germany."

Reverting to his efforts to show his friendship for England, the Kaiser said they had not been confined to words. It was commonly known that Germany was hostile to England throughout the Boer war. Undoubtedly the newspapers were hostile and public opinion was hostile. "But what," he asked, "about official Germany? What brought us a sudden stop that European tour of the Bore delegates who were striving for official intervention? They were fettered in Holland, and Farnow gave them rapturous welcome. They wish to open to Berlin what the German people would have crowded them with flowers but when they asked me to receive them I refused. Agitation tumultuously died away, and the delegation returned empty-handed. Was that a sign of a secret enemy? Again when I said that so far from the German government was invited by France and Russia to join them, they said, not only to save the Bore republic but also to humiliate England to the dust. What was my reply? I said that so far from the German joining any European action to bring peace against England to bring about her downfall, Germany would always keep aloof from politics that would bring her into complications with a power like England."

St. Petersburg, Oct. 26.—Development of the last few days indicate that Russia's threatened invasion of Azerbaijan province of Persia will not be for the purpose of bringing order out of chaos that has been prevalent there for nearly five months, but to arouse the people in the hope that the Shah will be overthrown. Russia is convinced that Ali Mirza is powerless to give his people a regime they desired, and his speedy overthrow is believed to be necessary. The foreign office declares that any Russian soldiers who "crossed" the Persian boundary though there is absolutely no proof that preparations are under way to this Shah quickly crushes out the rebellion, and will be effected unless the Shah has managed his country.

BIG MONEY.

New York, Oct. 26.—The expected split in the Charles W. Morse, bank promoter, financier and "trust" promoter, and Alfred H. Curtis, president of the National Bank of North America, both of whom are on trial for alleged violation of the national banking law, came today with the swinging in of Curtis as the first witness for the defense. Before calling the former president of the suspended National Bank of North America, Morse stood his own behalf, former judge W. M. K. Olcott, Curtis' attorney, announced that he had persuaded his clients to "tell all the facts."

Mr. Curtis testified that as cashier of the National Bank of North America, he had over-issued checks to the amount of $200,000. Morse was at the time vice president and director of the bank. During an absence abroad Mr. Morse was deposed by President Edwards. Upon his return he obtained control of the bank by purchasing a majority of the stock, Mr. Curtis' counsel, and after contesting Edwards' installation as president. Morse, the witness testified, carried a balance of $1,000,000 in the bank, and $200,000 of the bank had brought a great many customers and deposits to it. When the Carroll loan of $200,000 of the bank came up for renewal in the name of Brown, of Peimrose & Braun, Mr. Morse had instructed him to put it through, believing him to be a man of high character and of good standing back of it. Still, guaranteed it. At the time Curtis testified he supposed Morse to be a very rich man, having heard of his wealth estimated at $2,000,000. Considering this, it was not extraordinary, he thought, that it should take Morse's guarantee as fully protecting the witness.

His witness went into details relative to the transaction whereby 2,000 of the 4,000 shares of the bank were held by the bank had been sold to Mrs. Goldstein, and later disposed of by her at a profit of $24,950, and that Mr. Morse had turned into the bank, refusing to accept it for himself, although clearly entitled to it. Other loans with the bank as collateral had, then made by the witness, he declared, notably those to Davidson Brown, but always on the recommendation of Mr. Morse and after he had signed that he stood back of them and guaranteed them.

Posterity will someday realize the results of the telegram now at Windsor Castle, in which I informed the Sovereign of England of the answer I returned to those which then sought to compass her fall. I am sure who now fault me by fondling my sword, should know what no seasons were in the hour of their adversity. Nor was that all. During your black week in December, 1899, when disasters followed one another in rapid succession, I received a letter from Queen Victoria, written in sorrow and affliction. I at once returned a sympathetic reply. I did more. I had one of my officers prepare an exact account of the number of regiments on both sides and the actual position of the opposing forces, and with figures before me, I set out what I conceived to be the best plan of campaign under the circumstances, and submitted it to my general staff for criticism. Then I despatched it to England. That document likewise is among the state papers at Windsor awaiting the impartial verdict of history. Let me add as a curious coincidence that the plan which I formulated ran much on the same lines as that actually adopted by General Roberts and carried by him into successful operation. Was that the act of one who visited England ill? Let Englishmen be just and say so.

On Oct. 29, in answer to inquiries, the afternoon's foreign office states that the Kaiser's conversation, as reported in the London Telegraph was, in all its essential points correct. It was added that the letter which was intended as a message to the English people. The foreign office stated that an interview was given in 1907, when the Kaiser was staying at Highcliffe Castle, England, with one of the guests, to whose discretion as to the time of publication was left.

WANDERER FOR YEARS.

Winnipeg, Oct. 28.—After an absence of over ten years, Sir Arthur Curtis has been discovered in the wilds of British Columbia according to a story brought by T. W. Cole, one of the party with the British baronet when he mysteriously went off with an Indian guide while making his way to the Klondike with a bunch of horses.

Despite most diligent search, no tidings of the missing baronet could be found at the time, and eventually a skeleton was brought out by the Indians which was identified by several persons as being the remains of the missing baronet. Cole asserts that he knew before he left Vancouver that Curtis would disappear before reaching the Klondike on account of family complications in England, which Curtis told him had been the means of driving him to Canada and making him trek northwards with the heavy baggage in the horse trade.

In support of the story told by Cole, is the fact that within six months of the day Curtis left the party, his wife, Lady Curtis, had applied for and received an order from the British courts declaring the missing man dead and shortly afterwards she married Col. Robert M. Hardy, an Irishman, with whom she had been intimate for many years before the disappearance of Curtis, and who is alleged by many to be the real cause of the disappearance of Curtis.

Incidentally the story brought down by Cole from Ashcroft district was received just a few days before the provincial police had received fresh instructions from the Department of Justice at Ottawa to spare no pains to find the missing son of the late baronet.

Cole says Curtis is now living the life of a trapper and is virtually a hermit, living on what he can catch on trap and trading skins for such necessities of life as tobacco, tea, flour, etc.

Daily Mishaps

MAKE ZAM-BUK A DAILY NEED.

Scarcely a day passes without some member of the family getting hurt. Maybe the breadwinner's work makes him peculiarly liable to cuts or lacerations; the boisterous youngsters are always running in to mother with bumps and bruises; and housework abounds with painful knocks, burns, scalds, and sprains for the fair sex.

Promptly dressing an injury with Zam-Buk means speedy relief from smarting pain. That's why the children like it. But it means much more—that your hurt will heal up quickly and perfectly without festering, without gathering, and without harbouring disease germs. That's why the "grown ups" like it.

For instance, if I. O. O. G. (O. G. Jones)—"Flooded and drowned in the hospital and died." Zam-Buk was used and I am not only well but I am in my life never met with anything so equal Zam-Buk. All druggists and stores sell it in a box or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price 5 cents for 100. Cure cuts, burns, scalds, sprains, etc.
